

DYLAN MORAN

Dylan Moran (born 1971) is a BAFTA and Perrier Award-winning Irish comedian, actor and writer. He is most famous for his stand up comedy, the television sitcom Black Books which he co-wrote and starred in, and his work with Simon Pegg in Shaun of the Dead and Run Fatboy Run. Moran is a regular performer at national and international comedy festivals including the Edinburgh Festival Fringe, Just for Laughs Montreal Comedy Festival, the Melbourne International Comedy Festival and the Kilkenny Comedy Festival.

When it comes to personal details, Dylan Moran is a bit of a man of mystery. He's Irish. He has dark hair. He's very, very funny.

In 1993 he won Channel 4's So You Think you're Funny award. Three years later he won the Perrier Award for Comedy at the Edinburgh Fringe Festival.

He proved his worth as a dramatic actor in How Do you Want Me?

He played Rufus The Thief in the 1999 blockbuster romantic comedy Notting Hill, but he is probably most famous for his sit-com Black Books. Moran's unique brand of dry humour and surreal situations bring the setting of an old book store to life in the most unexpected ways.